THE GAME

This ice breaker is a little sneaky but can be quite fun.

After individuals have chosen how much string they would like, they then share facts about themselves.

Pass around a ball of string and some scissors and ask everyone to cut off a piece. Some will take tiny pieces, some very long ones. After everyone has a piece, go around the circle and have everyone say one thing about themselves for each finger width of string. This usually gets a few laughs for the person who cut off several feet!
